To My Friends and Customers

IN presenting my Annual Catalog and Cultural Guide I am glad to be able to offer at greatly reduced prices the many beautiful Dahlias and Gladiolus contained in my choice collection. These reduced prices are not made as a price cutting sale—only an honest and genuine desire on my part to offer an unusual opportunity, within the reach of all, to purchase at very reasonable prices, some of the newest and finest varieties in these increasingly popular flowers.

My bulbs are all grown, cured and handled under my own personal supervision, and, together with my modern equipment, excellent storage facilities, etc., I have spared neither labor nor expense in producing bulbs of the very best quality.

I certainly appreciate the many pleasant letters from well pleased customers commending me on my prompt service, good packing and the splendid condition in which they receive their bulbs, and others telling me of the fine success they have had in growing these bulbs, and the wonderful flowers they have produced.

Profiting by past experience, it will be my earnest endeavor to always supply bulbs of the very best quality and give this same prompt and efficient service.

Thanking you for past favors and hoping I may have the pleasure to receive your valued orders again this year, I am,

Yours very truly,

N. A. MILLER.

Strong, Field Grown Dahlia Tubers, Full of Pep and Beautiful Flowers

Please Read Before Sending Your Order

Order Early. As orders are received, stock will be reserved and sent out at the proper time—about the 15th of April or sooner if requested.

Terms. Cash with order. Send P. O. or Express Money Order, Registered Letter or Bank Draft. Stamps accepted on small orders.

Prepaid. All orders are sent with charges prepaid.

Guarantee. All dahlia tubers sent out to be true to name and in good growing condition. If any should prove otherwise please notify me and I will gladly replace the stock or refund your money.

Substitution. I never substitute unless asked to do so. But would suggest naming a few varieties as second choice, in case I should be sold out of the varieties ordered.

Name and Address. Write your name and address plainly and address all orders and correspondence to

CACTUS DAHLIAS

The Cactus type will always be very popular because of its distinct and unique formation of petals, which gives the flowers a chrysanthemum-like appearance. Most varieties have long, narrow and gracefully incurved petals, while some are straight. The Hybrid Cactus have large, bold flowers, with broad, fluted petals.

Well Developed, High Crown Gladioli Bulbs—Full of Vitality and Large Flowers

QUALITY FIRST AND ALWAYS

THE vigorous health and high quality of my Dahlia tubers and Gladioli bulbs is due chiefly to our ideal climate, long growing season and fertile sandy loamy soil.

The bulbs I have to offer this year were raised from young, healthy, vigorous planting stock, which has never been allowed to bloom, and developed by intensive cultivation, without irrigation or commercial fertilizer, and dug about the middle of November after the plants had fully matured. Then carefully cured by gentle heat, which practically insures the very best quality for either forcing or outside culture.

GLADIOLUS

The Flower Beautiful

THE BEAUTIFUL GLADIOLI

A Most Valuable Summer Flower for Cutting or Garden Decoration

SPECIAL OFFER

Fifty mixed bulbs, that will bloom for you this summer, for $1.00 postpaid. This is a fine mixture, which has become mixed through handling, and contains many beautiful colors.

BEAUTIFUL GLADIOLI

Gladioli make a wonderful display when planted in large beds on the lawn and in long borders and beautiful color patches are provided when massed in clumps of a dozen or more bulbs here and there among shrubbery, roses, or in the perennial or annual garden.

An abundance of these handsome flowers can be had all summer and until frost by planting at intervals of every two weeks from the middle of April up until the latter part of June.

Plant in an open, sunny situation, three to five inches deep, depending on the size of the bulbs, in well cultivated soil that has been liberally enriched with some kind of fertilizer. Dry blood and bonemeal mixed in equal parts, is an excellent fertilizer.

No further attention is required after planting, except to keep the beds clear of weeds and give support to some of the heavier spikes when in bloom. Water freely the whole season, even after the plants are through blooming. This will develop the bulbs and make them stronger for next year's growth.

Late in the fall, after the tops begin to wither, and before hard frosts, dig the bulbs, cut off the tops, and store in a cool, dry, frost-proof place.

Cut Flowers. Cut the spikes when the first flower buds open and put in water. Every morning remove the wilted blossoms, cut off about one inch of the stems and replace in fresh water. Treated in this way they keep fine for a week or ten days, especially if kept in a cool place at night.

MEDIUM SIZE BULBS

At Half of Catalog Price

These smaller size bulbs will produce equally as large flowers as the larger bulbs, if planted reasonably early (before the middle of May) and given good cultivation, and plenty of water.

PRIMULINUS HYBRIDS

A beautiful new race of Gladoli.

This species has become very popular because of their dainty colors, and refined, graceful appearance.

The flowers are hooded in shape, often ruffled, and are poised like butterflies on long, slender stems.

This type is among the first to bloom and come in various brilliant, yet soft and delicate shades of yellow, salmon pink, orange, amber, and many two-tone tints. While the flowers are not so large as some of the larger flowering types, they have many points in their favor for decorative purposes.

They are exceptionally fine to arrange with other flowers in baskets, vases, etc.

DAHLIA CULTURE

DAHLIAS are of such easy culture and so exquisitely beautiful that everyone should grow them, and they are rapidly becoming one of our most popular flowers.

There is no flowering plant which at so little cost will produce such abundance of large and beautiful flowers as the Dahlia, and in the different varieties you will find almost every shade, tint and color imaginable.

Dahlias make a beautiful hedge, planted along a walk or drive, and a most gorgeous and effective display when massed in large beds on the lawn or herbaceous border,

They are at home and will grow and bloom to perfection in almost any soil or climate.

Preparation of Soil. Dahlias will grow and produce fine blooms in almost any kind of soil. But grow and do their best in a rather light sandy loam that has been well worked by spading to a depth of 10 or 12 inches and thoroughly pulverized.

Planting. Dahlias may be planted any time after danger of frost is over, but for the best results plant from May 1st to the first of June. Late plantings always produce the largest and finest flowers.

Plant, if possible, in an open, sunny situation. Dig holes six inches deep, then lay in the tuber on a slight angle, or almost flat position, with the eye or sprout uppermost; cover about 2 inches, and pour in some water to settle the soil about the tuber; then cover again about 2 inches, leaving the rest of the soil to be filled in later, when the plants have come up above the ground.

Cultivation. Cultivate deep and thoroughly with a hoe or garden hook about once a week until the first flower buds appear, then deep tillage should cease and only the surface of the soil lightly stirred, as deep cultivation at this time is fatal to the small feeding roots and the free production of flowers.

Watering. Good cultivation is more important than water in the early stage of a dahlia plant's growth. But in dry weather water is quite necessary to keep up a strong and continuous growth of the plants, especially when dahlias are planted near trees or on the lawn and near walks with a grass border.

When the plants start to show flower buds that is when water should be applied freely in large quantities about once or twice a week. This will force a greater quantity of flowers with long stems and the largest sized blooms. A good method is to make a trench or basin-shaped mound of earth around the plant three or four inches deep and about two feet in diameter, filling this with water and pulling the earth back to the plant after the water has soaked into the ground.

Fertilizer. Dahlias don't require very rich soil to produce fine flowers. But to get extra good exhibition blooms a liberal amount of well rotted manure or commercial fertilizer should be applied and thoroughly worked in the soil about a month or six weeks after planting. A light top dressing of air-slacked lime is also recommended.

Disbudding. When extra fine cut flowers or exhibition blooms are wanted it is always best to disbud the small side buds and pinch out the first set of side shoots and leave only one bloom to develop on a stem.

Disbudding will not be necessary where the plants are grown for garden decoration, as a large number of good sized flowers are of more value for a fine garden display than only a few highly developed blooms. Always keep the old, withered flowers picked off and your plants will bloom better.

Staking. Dahlias, when well grown, usually make such large, heavy plants that a support of some kind becomes quite necessary to keep the strong fall winds and heavy rains from breaking down the plants and sometimes ruining them entirely.

A strong stake driven firmly into the ground at each plant and the stalk of the plant loosely tied to it will prevent a disaster of this kind.

Digging, and Care of the Tubers in Winter. Late in the fall, after the frost has killed the foliage, the clumps should be carefully dug and left to dry in the sun for a few hours; then cut off the stalks about two inches above the tubers and store in a frost-proof cellar or basement, away from furnace heat, if heated by a furnace. The clumps should be packed in boxes with the stem end down and covered with moss, sawdust or dry sand to prevent them from shriveling up.

Dividing. In the spring when the tubers commence to sprout the clumps should be divided with a sharp knife to single tubers, with one strong eye or sprout to each tuber.

In writing this article on Dahlia Culture I have endeavored to explain how I grow my large and beautiful Dahlias, and I am sure that anyone who will read and follow these cultural directions will have equally as great a success as I have had in growing these wonderful flowers.

Sincerely yours,

N. A. MILLER

An Invitation

YOU and your friends are cordially invited to visit my trial grounds and display garden, at 66th and Division Streets, during the blooming season. In this garden you will find, growing at their best, all the beautiful Dahlias and Gladiolus listed in my catalog, along with many of the finest new novelties of recent introduction.

Take Hawthorne Ave. car to 61st and Division streets and walk five blocks east.

Visitors always welcome.

New Hybrid Gladiolus

WHEN visiting my show garden you will also see a wonderful collection of new Hybrid Gladioli Seedlings, of my own origin. Some of these hybrids are of the very largest size, quite a number of them measuring up to six inches in diameter and heavily ruffled, and of the most beautiful and distinct colors imaginable, ranging from the purest clear white, yellow, soft salmon, pink, lavender, pure mauve and blues to the brightest red, scarlet and deepest crimson. There are also many rare and unusual pastel or art shades of smoky brown, grayish blue, rosy pinks, amber, orange, etc.

These new seedlings will not be for sale this coming year, but they will be introduced as soon as I can accumulate a sufficient stock of bulbs. However, I would like to have you see them.

There are over 600 distinct varieties in this wonderful collection of seedlings, every one being equal and many of them superior to any named kinds found in any of the commercial collections of today.

Many of these new seedlings will be named and introduced later, but not until they have stood the test in competition with the best at the trial gardens of the American Gladiolus Society and then only such varieties as have received a first-class certificate or an award of merit or a high rating will be retained and introduced.

WHEN through using this catalog, I would appreciate the favor if you will kindly lend it to some friend who may be interested in Dahlias and Gladiolus.

Yours truly,

N. A. MILLER.
